OLD BLOCK IN BLEECKER STREET, DISTURBED BY NOISES IN THE SALVATION ARMY BARF

The annals of this neighborhood, which was once peaceful Greenwich village, are no longer quiet, if the complaints of residents are blare of the cornet and tumultuous choruses of praise come at unseasonable hours, say householders, from the barracks, No. 323 Bleecker square where Christopher street crosses is the alleged storm centre.

E. B. HASKELL, Captain. Mr. Abbott, who lives above the barracks Army, corroborated Captain Haskell's statements. He is a Salvationist himself, and says he sleeps above their rooms and has never been disturbed by any noises, but thinks the late trial of Commander Booth-Tucker and his reprimand by the Court have caused all the trouble.

The neighborhood, however, is at variate with the statements of Captain Hassill and bis landlord.

T. M. Jewell, an advertising agent, who was next door, said: "In the first place, ey begin services at 7 o'clock on Sunday orning, and keep it up, with five or six revices, throughout the day. I don't obcit to religious devotions, but it seems to e the Almighty must be deaf, judging om the people next door.
